This asynchronous course does NOT emphasize fact and date memorization, but instead will be based upon a thematic conception of history in which the major ideas of later American history are analyzed and debated. Students will learn about the ideas, people, and events that have effected historical change in American history.